

FADJUR RADEEF

8/5/73 #101666

Vi Bredl (owner)

Deefy is a bay arabian stallion, a son of Fadjur. He completed his first endurance ride on his 5th birthday, when he was entered on the spur of the moment. It seemed like a good idea until we got to the ride, where he screamed constantly and tried to breed everything in camp.

But he was soon to show everyone that he was a serious consistent campaigner, and although still somewhat vocal at times, he will compete with mares in heat, and has never caused a problem for anyone on the trail. He will drink from streams with horses touching him on both sides. He has been the first out of stop and go checks, and rarely needs re-checked. With the exception of a couple rides where he was coming back from an injury, he always places. He rates himself on the trail, and lets me know when he thinks we should make our move.

He is the kind of horse you can go out and pleasure ride. When the relatives and friends come to visit and want to "ride a horsy" he is the one I can put the green horns and kids on, and know they will be safe. When I pony a young or in-experienced horse (of any sex) I use Deefy, because I can count on him to be sensible and steady, and not get me into trouble. I can ride him around camp bareback with a halter.

He has placed 15th in the nation, won the Jim Jones Award, the Midwest Region award, and was high point horse in UMECRA. He was the Endurance Horse Registry National Champion Stallion. He is qualified for the Race of Champions.
