Notes from AERC (Midyear Meeting)

The AERC Board of directors spent a very productive day in Denver discussing many issues before them. Much of the time was spent on the budget. Especially important to me is the time that was spent just explaining it to those like me who don't like numbers. After all was said and done, we are no longer in the hole, but we still need to be careful spending money as the economy it still not recovered and may get worse before it gets better.

There is still some money available for trail grants. The participants at Farmdale Park where Endure for the Cure is located, really enjoyed the water available from the outlet in the park instead of having it hauled in. So if your trail needs some money for a worthwhile project, send a request to AERC.

The most controversy was over a change to the rule for meeting completion pulse parameter in 30 minutes instead of 60 minutes for endurance. No change to make a rule requiring 30 minutes. The rule is written that AERC recommends 30-60 minutes to pulse parameter completion. It is the ride manager's decision, not the vet's. The manager knows the trail, the finish line, available water and help for cooling. The vet and the manager can discuss the exact time pre-ride. Any ride using 30 minutes needs to notify the riders at least 12 hours before the ride start.

Also, some refining of the Equine Abuse Rule and Participant Code of Conduct Rule was done. This will define these 2 issues better.

The drug rule is still being refined. We deferred voting as the Vet Committee needs to clarify the wording better. Magnesium sulphate will be allowed, but not in doses to tranquilize, Arnica will be prohibited, but we don't have clarification on arnica in poultices, ice water is allowed, even used in a circulating device, but not below 0 degrees, Yucca is up in the air right now.

Thanks for reading...
