Triple Crown Award

Just a reminder about the AHDRA sponsored TRIPLE CROWN AWARD. This award is open to any horse/equine team. The rider or driver need not be an AHDRA or UMECRA member. However, they must attend at least 3 out of the 4 AHDRA sponsored rides and complete, as a team, in at least one event at those rides. Teams who attend all 4 rides will have their lowest scoring ride dropped. Two of the AHDRA rides have now been run. Anyone who has attended one or both of them is in the running for the award. This year, the prize has been donated by Doug Palme, a fantastic equine photographer. The winner will get a private sitting with their horse and the photo will be framed in a floating frame. See out web page for more information.

I will not list all the scores, but here are the Top Ten horse/rider teams in the running.

Laura Husser/Maggie	34
Bonnie Mielke/Chariotsoffire	24.2
Julie Jackson-Biegert/Nitro	22
Candy Barbo/CR Windsor	21
Anita Sinnet/Psyche on Fire	21
Marge Dixon/Kenlyn Intrigue	20
Shea Kimbro/Kenlyn Lexus	18
Michelle Mattingley/PA Gone Holliwood	16
Eileen Kirsch/Sabin Scooter	15.2
Marianne Guilfoyle/Trekea	14

Endurance Riding Etiquette

Jun 20, 2010 Wendi Gibson

Endurance riding is a sport shared by thousands of people year round. Everyone has a different goal in mind when riding endurance. Some ride for the fun of seeing new trails, some ride as a form of exercise to stay physically fit, and some ride competitively to win. There are just as many non-riders at endurance rides who show up to help volunteer and meet up with friends.

A little common courtesy can go a long way to make the weekend enjoyable for everyone participating. Most endurance riding etiquette is common sense, and there are several articles about basic endurance riding etiquette. However, there are still some things worth mentioning. Whether a newbie or an old pro at endurance riding, the following lists a few tips on endurance riding etiquette.

Endurance Etiquette in Camp

Camping during an endurance ride is part of the endurance riding experience. It's a great way to meet new people, share ride tips and tricks, and hear a few amazing stories. The first people a rider will meet will be his camping neighbors. As soon as the trailer is parked and horses are unloaded, neighbors are often greeting one another, shaking hands, and deep into conversation about the next day's ride.

One of the best things a rider can do to ensure a peaceful weekend with his neighbors, is to set up camp conservatively. Most riders are very considerate of their neighbors when setting up camp. They will help each other unload horses, set up corrals, and fill buckets. But there are some things that are often overlooked due to the hustle and bustle of ride day.

Make sure the generator isn't constantly blowing fumes on neighbors or their horses
Riders should keep their dogs from urinating on others' hay bales, buckets, tack, etc.
Never feed, handle, or pet another's horse without the rider's consent
Be mindful of the flashlight beam during the middle of the night when checking on horses
Endurance Etiquette on the Trail
Newbies to the sport of endurance riding often find their first ride to be quite an educational experience and can always find something to take back with them to apply to their everyday trail riding at home. Old pros at endurance have been known to learn a thing or two from the newbies from time to time! There are a few rules of etiquette to follow while on the trail as well:

Never rush past or quickly stop in front of another horse on the trail
If there is a trail hazard, call it out to the others coming up behind
Give a rider notice if passing him from behind
Always wait for a dismounted rider to remount before leaving
Always allow faster horses to pass
If a rider encounters another dismounted rider on the trail who seems to be having trouble, it is always in her best interest to stop and assist. However, never assume all riders need assistance just because they have dismounted. For example, a rider squatting in the bushes up ahead might need more privacy than assistance on most occasions!

Etiquette During Vet Checks

One of the best skills a rider can teach his horse is how to quietly proceed through a vet check. At every vet check, the horse's health is assessed by the ride veterinarian. A well-schooled horse and rider can make the ride veterinarian's job much easier if the horse is used to being handled in the following ways:

- Opening the mouth
- Lifting all the feet
- Lifting the tail
- Allow skin-tenting to check for dehydration
- Allow palpation of different muscle groups

Trot quietly in a straight line alongside the handler
At a vet check, riders will be lined up with their horses or gathered in a large group waiting for their turn. Horses of any kind, even stallions and mares in season should stand quietly in a group and keep to themselves. Riders stay happy when green horses or more nervous horses are under the control of a competent handler during vet checks.

Vet checks are not the place to start teaching a horse his manners. Horses should be well-schooled in being handled by strangers, and new riders young or older, should be well-schooled in handling their horses. There are riders of every age and experience level competing in endurance so safety should always be a priority!

Endurance riding is a fun sport shared by many people. With anywhere from 50 to 100 horses and riders competing at any one ride, there isn't any room for horses and riders with bad manners. Observing good endurance riding etiquette on and off the trail will ensure a great ride experience for everyone involved

Back Tracking

The 1974 April UMECRA meeting –or as it was called (The Upper Midwest Endurance Ride Assoc) was held at a Saving & Loan Building in Tomah, WI.

Representatives from three new rides were present. The Neillsville Ride was born! Managed by Lindsay and Christina Taliaferro the 1st Neillsville Ride was held on August 23rd and 24th 1974. The ride being in my backyard reminded me that the ride was originally headquartered out of the Rivera Supper Club area, with the Clark County Sheriff's Dept. stopping traffic at the Hwy 95 crossing to let the horses at the start of the ride to cross safely.

The ride then moved the headquarters to Lindsay's farm, and the ride started out of his horse pasture. It eventually moved to the Wildcat Clark County Park, a small campground out in the middle of the county. The park was overgrown with Walking Stick insects and then the Neillsville 100 mile race became known as the Walking Stick 100!

The ride continued thru the 1986 season and then I could not find any more records of this ride.

In July of 2005 Elinore Tonsor and Mona Radtke came back into the Neillsville Clark County Forest with the move of their Wildcat Ride so that a 100 mile race could also be offered.

This seasons ride with be the 6th year, riders and crews can not really begin to appreciate the amount of hard labor it took to get this ride to the level of riding now being offered. days of tree trimming and sawing with heavy power saws each season have been needed to open some of these trails. Be sure to give these ladies a Heads Up for their continued commitment to UMECRA!

This morning on the UMECRA digest I read this ride description posted by TJ- it read as follows:
angie,

this is not a technical or difficult ride. however, it's usually interesting and fun. lots of both two track and single track riding. last year some of the single track was very narrow and winding and just a scream to do if you went fairly fast.

there is generally good footing but there are a few small boggy areas, some sand, some gravel road riding and some places where there are lots of tree roots to slow you down.

there are usually out of camp checks on both the I.d. and 50 milers. I would expect this to be the same this year. However, there are copious places for a crew person to meet you as there are quite a few road crossings.

Good Luck.
t.j.

Notes from AERC - July

Notes from AERC

July

Not much being talked about on AERC this last month. We have our Mid-Yesar meeting in August as usual. We will be discussing all the subjects that have come up in the 6 months since the convention and we will also be working on the 2011 budget.

Contact me with any questions or concerns that you may have about AERC or things that we will be expected to be voting on.
